The Suits Never Bid

At a recent NABC there were several unbid suits.

My friend Val, aka "the Mad Bulgarian", picked up the following 63 75 AKQJ6432 5.

With no one vulnerable there were 2 passes to him. Trying to maintain his American reputation he tried 2NT Well , he had 8 tricks. . His pard transferred with AQxxx of spades and then bid 3NT. His LHO had a bog hand with honors in all but diamonds, so he chanced the safe lead of a diamond!

We had 2 interesting hands in the swiss. The question was what do you call the AKQxxxx of spades? Or perhaps QJ ninth of spades? The standard answer is trumps. But in one table of our matches the suit was never bid! In the first case your partner haeld a big 66 heart ,diamond hand and opened 1H. Well before you bid the opponent on your right interjects one spade and there you are. Final conerct had you picking you better singleton.

Holding QJ10xxxxxx x void AQx what would you bid when partner opens 4H? Unfortunately 4S would be a cue bid so the nine card spade suit comes down in dummy.
